Hey, Sonia!

Hi, Paweł!

How are you, Mistrzu Językowy?

Hi! I'm good, or: I'm not so bad. How about you?

Oh, I'm great. I'm just so curious about your conversation with Tony!

Dear listener, let's ask Sonia: Czego nowego nauczyłaś się wczoraj od Tony'ego?

What new did you learn from Tony yesterday?

Hmm... Let me think...

Sure! No rush!

No rush?

Bez pośpiechu. :) 'Rush' to 'pęd', 'gonitwa'.

Aaa... Gotcha!

You see... I did not understand everything Tony says... Is that correct?

Yeah! It's correct. It's just more natural to say 'I didn't'.

Sure!

Dear listener, say: Nie zrozumiałam wszystkiego.

I didn't understand everything.

That's all right. Nothing to worry about. Nie ma się, czym przejmować.

Oh yeah, I remember - 'no worries' means 'nie martw się'.

Yeah.

I talled him...

Miałaś na myśli: 'powiedziałam mu...'

Yes. Wystarczy, że dodam 'ed', prawda?

Tak jak I said before: not always. 'I tell you' - mówię Ci, but 'I told you' - powiedziałem Ci.

And dear listener, let's say: Powiem Ci.

I'll tell you.

Perfect!

I'm so happy! :) Now I can speak about yesterday, today and tomorrow!

Yeah. That's really great!

Dear listener, zwróć uwagę na wymowę 'told'. Repeat after me: I told you.

I told you.

Excellent! So what did you tell him?

I asked często...

'Często' to 'often'.

Więc I asked him often...

It sounds more natural, jeśli powiesz: I often asked him.

There are some words, które określają czas i które stoją w zdaniu zaraz przed czynnością.

Jakie?

You know some of them. Some of them, czyli kilka z nich. For example: always, usually, often, never.

Hm. I see.

Dear listener, say: On nigdy nie mówi o przeszłości.

He never speaks about the past.

And now: Co zazwyczaj robisz?

What do you usually do?

And now: Często pytałam go.

I often asked him.

Wonderful!

Anyway, wracając do naszej last conversation, I often asked him: 'Can you say that again?', 'What does it mean?', etc.

That's great!

Yeah, He explained everything to me. He used different words, gdy I didn't understand him.

For example?

He asked me: 'what do you like to do in your free time?'. But he said that so fast...

So I said: Say that again, please.

And what did he answer?

He said: what's your passion, your hobby...

Cool!

Yeah. And I got that 'a passion' means pasja, and 'a hobby' means hobby.

So easy :D Haha

Awesome, Sonia.

Do you remember kiedy I told you that in English nie czytamy podwójnych liter?
'Hobi', a nie hobbi...

Yeah! I do!

Dear listener, repeat after me: Hobby.

Hobby.

And now: Passion

Passion.

He also said something about...

Sonia, can we continue tomorrow?

Of course! What happened?

Not much. I just have to help my dad...

'You have to'...? Masz pomóc swojemu tacie?

Yeah, you can translate it this way. 'I have to', czyli 'muszę', 'mam coś do zrobienia'.

Dear listener, say: Muszę jechać do Warszawy.

I have to go to Warsaw.

Great!

Nie byłam tego pewna, bo w sumie 'go' to iść... Isn't it?

Yeah. 'Go' means iść, but not only that... it also means 'jechać', 'opuszczać', itp.

Anyway! I gotta go!

I to pewnie jakiś skrót od 'I have to go...'?

I'll tell you everything next time.

Okay. Sure. Go... Don't be late! I'll do the quiz.

By the way, you can say 'take the quiz', too. It actually sounds more natural to me. See ya!

Bye!
