

Odcinek nr 59 - I'm a patient patient

Nowe słownictwo:

patient - cierpliwy, pacjent

impatient - niecierpliwy

to be getting - zaczynać się

ill - chory

sick - chory (mniej formalnie)

Hi, Sonia! Hey, Mistrzu Językowy!

Hey, everyone!

What's up?

Hi! Or: Not much! Or: Nothing much!

Sonia, I'm very curious about the man you met 2 days ago.

Oh, yeah. I think that it's quite interesting.

I'm getting impatient! Czyli zaczynam się robić niecierpliwy.

'Impatient', czyli 'niecierpliwy'?

Exactly. Do you have any idea how to say 'cierpliwy' in English?

Hmm... Let me think. Informal, formal... Incorrect, correct.

Impatient - patient. Am I right?

Absolutely!

But... wait, Paweł. 'Patient' means 'pacjent'. Czyż nie?

Yes - patient means both 'pacjent' i 'cierpliwy'.

Dear listener, say: Czy jesteś cierpliwym pacjentem?

Are you a patient patient?

That's so funny! Haha.

Yep. Hehe. By the way, you asked me 'czyż nie?'. Do you know how to do that in English?

No idea...

He's an impatient patient. Isn't he?

Can you see what I did?

Hmm... You asked dosłownie 'czy on nie jest?', czyli stworzyłeś pytanie, ale z zaprzeczeniem.

Indeed! You're very smart. Now, look at this example:

She doesn't go to the Bahamas on her holidays. Does she?

I think I got it. Jak jest twierdzenie, to pytam w sposób przeczący, a jak jest przeczenie, to pytam w sposób twierdzący.

Masło maślane. Hehe. I think you understand that. Anyway, let's play a game!

I'll say a sentence, and you'll ask 'czyż nie?'

Deal!

Are you ready, dear listener? Let's start!

We are very helpful.

Aren't we?

Great! And now: He knows my secrets.

Doesn't he?

You didn't leave yesterday.

Did you?

She's not talking with them at the moment.

Is she?

You drink coffee every morning.

Don't you?

And now. It'll be at seven.

Won't it?

Skrót it'll czytamy jak 'itl', but when people speak fast, sometimes they skip 't' and they say 'ill' like 'the word 'ill', czyli 'chory'.

Dear listener, repeat after me: it'll [itl], it'll [ill]

It'll, it'll.

'Ill' is a bit formal. It's more natural to say 'sick'.

Dear listener, your turn, say: Robi mi się niedobrze, a dosłownie: Staję się chora.

I'm getting sick.

I don't let you do that! Haha! Tomorrow we'll review some things!

Haha! Sure thing!

Before that, I have a tip for you. Take the quizzes from our previous podcasts, czyli z naszych poprzednich podcastów.

Quizzes?

Yeah! Let's talk about it next time!

Deal! And yeah, that's a great idea! Speak to you soon!

See ya!
